

COMMENT NO. 1: SUBMITTED BY DON SUMMIT

Don Summit, representing JDS Swift (formerly E.A. Miller), read his comment verbally as follows:

My name is Don Summit. I represent JDS Swift, which is a manufacturer up in Cache Valley. Used to be known as E.A. Miller. I just wanted to speak in support of the provision of the Rule which allows for a site-specific standard. I've participated, as I've been able to, in the process over the last couple of years and I believe that it is better than the previous process and I believe that it represents the interests of the State and allows people and their entities and also nature to, well as an example of the Mancus Shale, to do what nature's going to do anyway and it allows people and industry, such as my own, to be more efficient in trying to meet the regulations such as we're trying to reduce nutrients but we have to do that, in order to do that we have to add TDS and so we are the entity that's requested this site-specific standard up at Spring Creek. But I think it's a good process and I just want to speak in support of that and express appreciation to the staff and the folks that participated in the workgroup. Thanks.
